FAIR BOOTH SALE STARTS THIS WEEK

Sale of commercial exhibit space for the 1955 Porterville fair was started this week by Ernie Cassidy, superintendent of exhibits, who states that he is first contacting representative of firms that exhibited last year and who indicated they wanted space again this year.

Approximately 80 exhibit booths are available in the main fair building; Mr. Cassidy states that early interest indicates a sell-out.

Directors will award ribbons this year to commercial exhibitors on a competitive basis, with details of how judging will be conducted to be announced in the near future.

An official fair office will not be set up until a later date, however, Mr. Cassidy can be reached at his home, 323 North E street, or by Porterville telephone, 1287-W.

Representatives of entertainment booking agencies have already started to contact fair directors and, as in past years, policy will be to bring in the highest type of outdoor act for the grandstand show.

Irrigation Office To Be Moved This Month

Office of the Porterville Irrigation district will be moved from its present location to a one-and-two-thirds acre site, purchased by the district, on the north side of Henderson road, three-eighths of a mile west of Westwood drive.

Office building will be moved to the new site probably within 15 days, it was reported by District Manager Ernie Northup at a meeting of the district board, Tuesday evening.

It was also reported at the meeting that about three-fourths of the field work has been completed on

"800" Series Ford Tractors On View Friday

With the introduction of the new "800 Series" Ford tractors scheduled for this Friday at the Billingsley & Elliott Tractor Sales showrooms on south Main street in Porterville, the Ford Motor company departs from its time honored policy of building a single-model tractor and enters the field of the large tractor with two new models, the "850" and "860".

The two models are said to be the most powerful tractors ever built by the long established motor company since Henry Ford introduced the first model "Fordson" nearly a half-century ago.

Since that time, the company has produced well over two million tractors, concentrating on the one single size and model, so, the change represents a major break with the past.

In addition to the two larger tractors, the local firm is also introducing three new models in the popular "600 Series" incorporating some 31 improvements in engine, mechanical and hydraulic systems according to the manufacturers.

But the big story it is stated, is the eight-hundred's which are said to have 30 percent boost in power over their small brothers. Both models are designated as full three-plow tractors with five-speed transmissions.

Standard equipment on all models in addition to Ford's three-point implement hitch and hydraulic implement control, include sealed beam head and tail-lights, trailer break-away connections and rubber cushioned drivers' seats.

JOINT LODGE INSTALLATION TUESDAY NIGHT

Joint installation ceremonies will be conducted by Porterville Odd Fellows and Porterville Rebecca lodges next Tuesday evening, January 11, 8:00 o'clock, at the Porterville Fraternal center.

Victor Seward will be seated as noble grand and George Sears, vice grand, of the Odd Fellows and Stella Mauldin, noble grand, and Evelyn Anderson, vice grand of the Rebeccas. The installation ceremony is open to the public.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT PUBLIC HEARING SET JAN. 18 BEFORE SUPERVISOR BOARD

Public hearing on the proposed Tule River Soil Conservation district has been set for Tuesday, January 18, at 2:00 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers of the county courthouse in Visalia, with exclusion of land within the proposed district the principal matter to be considered at the hearing.

The proposed district would cover the Tule river water shed, from the mountains down to the Worth district, including the three forks of the river.

Ranchers residing within this area who desire to have their property excluded if the district is formed, must file a letter to this effect with the county board of supervisors prior to the hearing.

It is stated that once property is included within the district, after formation of the district, that property cannot later be excluded, however, provision is made in the soil conservation district law to accept property into the district if the property owner so requests.

Petition asking formation of the district was presented to the board of supervisors about three weeks ago. If such a petition represents 51 percent of property and 51 percent of land owners, provision is made for district formation by order of the supervisors.

These percentages were not reached, it is stated, when petition names were checked; supervisors are expected to set a date for vote on district formation, after the January 18 hearing has been completed.

It is stated by clerk of the board of supervisors that to date, 10 letters requesting exclusion have been received from property owners within the proposed district.

RODGERS L. MOORE, who was reelected chairman of the Tulare county board of supervisors when the board organized for a two-year period at last Tuesday's meeting. Vote was unanimous. Officially seated at the meeting was Ray Longley, as new supervisor from the fifth district.

"RED HEADS" BOOKED FOR BENEFIT GAME

The All-American Red Heads, nationally-famous team of girl basketball players, will appear the evening of February 2 in the Porterville high school gymnasium in a game sponsored by the Porterville high school and college P.T.A.

The girls will meet an all-star men's team from the faculties of Porterville high school, Porterville college and Bartlett elementary school. Proceeds from the game go to the P.T.A. student welfare fund, and other P.T.A. activities.

GROUP TO ATTEND CATTLEMEN MEETING

Planning to attend a meeting of the American National Cattlemen's association in Reno, Nevada, January 10-12, are Messrs. and Mesdames John Guthrie, Clyde Carlisle, Ralph Gill and Ralph Wardlaw. Meeting also will be the National Cow Belles, of which Mrs. Guthrie is president and Mrs. Carlisle, secretary.

HUNTING SEASON ENDS JANUARY 10

Waterfowl shooting season ends next Monday, January 10, after a 72-day split season.

MONACHE KARL, shown above, last week enrolled in college, or to be more exact, he was taken to Cal Poly where he became a valuable addition to the school's swine herd. The boar, herd sire at Monache Farm, Porterville, was given to Cal Poly by Rolla Bishop when he completed dispersal of his famous Poland Chinas last week.

GIVE — GIVE TO THE MARCH OF DIMES

Polio has been no respector of age during the past year in Tulare county. The youngest patient was a seven-month-old baby, Terry Cannon, of Porterville; the oldest, Gene McPhaill, 66, a retired Visalia cattleman.

The county had 42 new polio cases during the past year; at the Exeter Memorial hospital, where polio cases from Tulare and Kings counties are channeled, average case load runs from eight to 12 patients, in addition to many former patients who were stricken in 1953, or before, and who now return regularly for physical therapy treatment by Miss Kathleen McKay, therapist, in the John Dennis polio clinic of the hospital.

Actually, the incidence of polio is not as high as many other diseases. But because of polio after-effects and the great expense usually involved in treatment, it is perhaps the most dreaded disease that confronts us today.

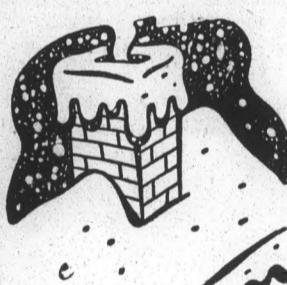

On the basis of recent developments, it may well be that medical scientists are on the verge of developing a vaccine that will control, or virtually wipe out, polio. There are definite reasons for hope — but this goal has not yet been attained.

Meanwhile, polio may hit anywhere — the young, the old; meanwhile, the expense of treatment continues — and this expense is tremendous.

And, meanwhile, you and I must continue to support the March of Dimes, for it is through this annual campaign that funds are raised for care of polio patients from our own community, from our own county, as well as funds to continue the highly important job of research that will eventually solve the problem of polio.

When you are contacted within the next few days, either by mail or personally, give to the March of Dimes. Give just a little extra this year, because the need is great.

March Of Dimes Campaign Hits Stride In Southeastern Tulare County Area

March of Dimes campaign moved into high gear in southeastern Tulare county this week, with Porterville Lions club members heading the campaign in the Porterville district.

Troy Hutchinson is assisting with the drive in the Woodville area; Frank Kibler is chairman at Springville; Herb Zimmerman, at National spring pig crop is estimated at 58.5 million head, five per cent higher than last spring.

California pig crop in 1954 was 533,000 head, about 2,000 less head than in 1953.

party. She was beautiful in a pale blue satin dress that was decorated with rhinestones, and a tiara.

you know what I mean, a jeweled effect on her head. I can't find out how to spell it. Ada Klassen had on a scarlet short evening dress, and was one of the guests that looked very lovely. Jean Cox was stunning in a white skirt covered with rhinestones. Betty didn't tell me what Jean had on top, but I'm sure it was something. All Betty remembered was the skirt, and the many petticoats which she said were so pretty it was a shame to hide under a skirt. All in all it was a great party, and one of the women guests is trying to find the man who had a cold, and gave it to her when she was wishing him a Happy New Year at midnight when all the balloons fell from the ceiling. Fine thing! How inconsiderate can a man be.

One of the nicest parties New Year's Eve was at the Hammond home. All the kids came after the DeMolay dance, and played pool, etc., in the basement, and ate and ate and ate. Doug Wade had just been installed as the master counselor, and Ronald Milinich as senior counselor, and Alan Hammond as junior counselor. The dance was a great success, horns, silly hats and everything.

The afternoon before New Year's Eve a station wagon pulled up in front of the Women's Club and all the decorations and decoration committee piled out. Norma and Alan Margo and the "Pearson Pump" Pearsons were in charge. Balloons and cages and wild animals were to be used for the circus motif. Alan must be very clever, he made the cages for the tigers and pink elephants that were in the corners of the room. Betty Pearson made the coffee, and instead of going to all the work of boiling good coffee, she tried to make huge amounts of instant coffee which turned out to be thicker and stronger than molasses. I asked her what the guests said about the coffee, and she said it couldn't be printed. Charles Cummings called the Paul Jones, which mixed up the guests more than they already were. Betty said she danced with people she had never seen before. As a rule when you go to the Dancing Club you only dance with the crowd you came with, but the Paul Jones' fixed that. Norma Margo, according to report, was the most with the most at the last period, and worked hard on the character she was playing. Now all her work is showing profit, and she is doing well.

Stockmen of California will gather at Davis, January 29, for annual Animal Husbandry Livestock day, with a wide variety of subjects to be discussed in sections devoted to horses, beef cattle, sheep, dairy cattle and swine.

Harold H. Cole, chairman of the department of animal husbandry at Davis, will preside at a general session, beginning at 10:00 a.m., following registration. Fred N. Briggs, dean of the college of agriculture, will extend a welcome.

Emil M. Mrak, chairman, department of food technology, will speak on "Meat Is a Problem for Everyone"; James F. Wilson, professor of animal husbandry, will speak on "Observations on the Livestock Industry in Europe", and Wesley Hardenbergh, president, American Meat Institute, will speak on "Looking Ahead With Livestock and Meats."

During the afternoon session, technical problems will be discussed in the various specialized sections.

FINS FUR FEATHERS

By Phil The Forester

With the waterfowl season about to close, hunting conditions begin to improve. The public duck hunting grounds of the San Joaquin valley have also shown an increased usage the last few days. On the latest hunting day, January 2, Los Banos accommodated 94 hunters who took 178 ducks and 28 geese, Merced had 88 hunters who took 57 ducks and 29 geese while the San Luis Wasteways provided 422 ducks and 13 geese for 145 sportsmen. These three areas are open Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays on a reserve in advance basis but if the quota is not filled, first come first served hunters are allowed to shoot.

The Merced Cooperative Hunting Area open each day of the season has provided some fairly good goose shooting but not many ducks have been taken. Good hunting success depends a great deal on watching where the birds light and then pulling a sneak as the lingo goes.

Random reports that Stanislaus county duck shooting has been very poor. A few geese have come into the grain fields in the western part of the county. Kings — Many geese in the Corcoran area also quite a heavy concentration of mallards. Kern county — Duck hunting improved throughout the district and clubs are having little difficulty bagging limits, mostly spoonbills and teal. About 30,000 sprig in the grain fields of Buena Vista lake bottom.

The last day ducks, geese and coots may be legally taken will be January 10. However, the hunting season on black sea brant will continue until February 10 with a bag possession limit of three. Sportsmen should not confuse this little maritime goose with what is often referred to as a brant in the valley area but is in fact the cackling goose. Don't look for the brant except along the Pacific ocean, particularly around Morro Bay, Marin and Humboldt counties.

Post season possession limit has been removed so that hunters may now keep a limit of waterfowl as long as they care to. The regulation has been interpreted as allowing one limit in post season possession for each member of the household.

The quail season just closed was one of the best. It was our pleasure to spend the last two days on a big San Luis Obispo county ranch which had an enormous bird population and as we hunted over the best of pointing bird dogs, limits were almost too easy to come by. It was the best way possible to close out the old year.

From

Daybell
Nursery

By John

Several people, including the wife, have commented on our last two columns. There was a great deal of debate whether "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" showed the most originality and forethought. The wife thought "Merry Christmas" was good but when it came to "Happy New Year" she thought more laziness than sentiment was involved. Surely nobody but a wife could be so doubtful.

Since the holidays we've hauled in several truck loads of things we hope you would like to have. If you drop by we'll be glad to show you around — and if you actually buy something we'll be downright happy. Customers coming before noon are requested to bring their own firewood as it's pretty dog-gone cold out there these mornings.

We shudder to mention it but this is "bare root" season. "Bare root" refers to plants which have been grown in a field and then pulled up and brought into the nursery — minus soil. Also minus leaves and in some cases minus roots. The latter we don't sell. Not if you watch us we don't.

Bare root plants include roses in every variety, fruit trees beyond description and shade trees large enough to tear a fender off if you back into one. We put these same plants into cans later on, raise the price somewhat, and peddle them to the late comers. You can see it is cheaper and better for you to get them now. It's also better for us because we have to eat between meals in order to empty enough cans. We are working on a scheme which will ease the pain however, we're going to plant in bottles. This may revolutionize the whole nursery industry.

We're open Sundays until Easter — also from Monday through Saturday of each week. Come soon.

Vegetable, Melon Production And Value Decline Slightly

Production and value of vegetables and melons harvested in California in 1954 declined slightly from that in 1953, but the tonnage produced was only nine percent below the record year of 1951 and value was only five percent less than that record year.

Production in 1954 totalled 4,776,361 tons with a value of $360,489,000. These crops were harvested from 615,050 acres, which is the same as the 1953 acreage. Although the total acreage was the same in 1953 and 1954, there was considerable variation in acreage for individual crops for the two years.

In 1954, lettuce ranked first in acreage and value with 123,900 acres harvested at a value of $76,395,000. Second in acreage and value was tomatoes, fresh and canning combined, with 111,700 acres and $63,507,000 value.

In-shipment of cattle and calves continues at a level above last year in California, with total for first 10 months of 1954 more than 25 per cent above figure for the same period in 1953.

GOD'S TIME

Another year has slipped by, and except for a New Year's observance, almost unnoticed. With the speed of modern living hurrying the 365 days along, we almost unanimously concur in Elizabeth Allen's thoughts when she said, "Turn backward, turn backward, O Time in thy flight, make me a child again, just for tonight."

A man working on his Master's Degree thesis asked me if I had any books on the theological significance of time. I was sorry to tell him that I hadn't any such books, and even hadn't thought too much about it. (I apparently had been too busy to think much of the passage or even the meaning of time.)

But I discovered that God's Word has quite a bit to say about time, without trying to be interpretive. For instance: if men argue and one strikes another to injure him, "he shall pay for the loss of his time." (Exod. 21:19). In Psalms 56:3 we read, "At what time I am afraid I will trust in Thee." According to Ecclesiastes 3:1: "For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter of heaven." Jesus said concerning Jerusalem, "You did not know the time of your visitation." (Luke 19:44) And about the future He said, "It is not for you to know times or seasons which the Father has fixed by his own authority." (Acts 1:7).

How good it is to do as Jesus said, "Be not anxious for the morrow." In 1955 let's live one day at a time, and do it for God's glory.

Remove Cover From Tomato Beds For Sturdier Plants

By Vincent H. Schweers
Farm Advisor

A good, sturdy tomato plant will stand the shock of transplanting better than a spindly weak one.

One way to produce good, sturdy plants is to remove the covers and expose the plants to the sun and air during the day. This causes the plant to grow somewhat slower and consequently the plant gets darker in color and has shortened internodes.

Removing the covers during the day also helps to dry off the plant and the soil surface which in turn reduces damping-off problems.

Many growers use muslin covers of their plant beds. These covers should be placed over the beds only at night. They provide some frost protection and will trap some of the daytime heat, which helps to keep the beds slightly warmer.

A newly-designed mobile saw is here shown felling a large tree in a 16,000-acre land clearing project near Texarkana, Texas. One man sitting comfortably in a protective steel cage and operating simple controls moves the huge apparatus up to a tree from any angle and within seconds has it crashing to the ground. The unit designed by R. G. Le Tourneau, Inc., of Longview, Texas, is electrically operated, producing its own current by means of a generator driven by a General Motors Diesel engine.

The muslin covers when left on during a warm day cause the plants to grow tall and spindly because the covers raise the temperature too high for best plant growth and they also shade the plants. The shade causes the plants to grow tall and also cuts down the manufacture of food in the plant.

GOOD BUSINESS YEAR PREDICTED

Outlook for business and industry in the nation in 1955 is rated as "excellent" by the United States chamber of commerce, with the possibility seen that 1955 can be the greatest business year in the nation's history.

Tuberculosis Funds Still Needed

Christmas Seal sale brought $18,769.55 to the Tulare County Tuberculosis association, according to Lester J. Hamilton, of Porterville, association president. Mr. Hamilton states that the association needs $30,000 to carry on its full program.

Success Dam

Porterville city councilmen went on record Tuesday evening as favoring construction of Success dam as a flood control dam, to protect the city of Porterville, and voted an amount not to exceed $100.00 to apply against expenses of any individual who may be sent from Tulare county to lobby for the dam during the present session of congress. The city has taken similar action in past years.

Spring pig crop in California is now estimated at 286,000 head, about two per cent more than in the spring of 1954.

We Only Heard

By BILL RODGERS

ONE THOUGHT that should be eliminated right now in regard to the coming Porterville high school and college bond election is that someone is trying to put something over on someone, or that someone is trying to spend money just for the sake of spending . . . Such is not the case. School board members — they're all taxpayers, you know — have presented a plan; without question the school district has problems. Issue is whether or not we, as citizens, agree with plan of the school board; further issue is that if we disagree, what do we consider as a logical alternate to meet district problems? . . . Disagreement without that alternative is just no good.

SITTING IN a meeting the other evening, we were awakened with a start when a public official announced, "we will leave the status quo exactly as is." We asked another "fourth estater" sitting beside us just how one goes about doing that, to which we got the answer, "The same way you designate between a true fact." . . . Oh well, we had to fill the above space with something.

ELECTIONS COMING UP — All irrigation districts, February 2; Porterville Memorial district, March 22; city of Porterville, April 5; school boards in May.

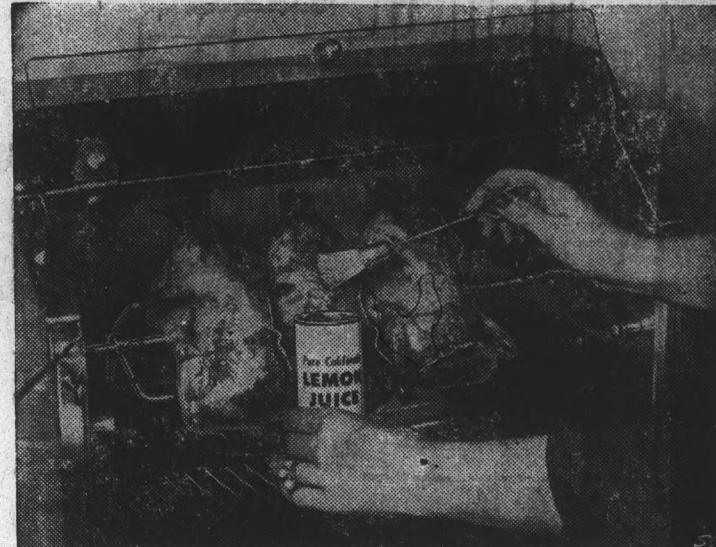

NOT THE LEAST of Porterville city fathers' troubles at the moment is what to do with trucks — trucks that have been routed down Third street, but which bother patients in the Porterville City hospital. A simple solution seemed to be to put all trucks down D street, which was already a designated truck route, but residents on D street said, no sir, we don't want more trucks, we want to sleep at night. So, after determining that Second street, Fourth street, E street and Hockett street just wouldn't fill the bill as truck routes, city councilmen hoped to hit a compromise by putting truck traffic on Main street between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m., thereby taking truck noises away from the hospital for at least a few hours each night and early morning. A good idea? Apparently, but not in the opinion of some people on Main street, who kept the city manager's phone hot when the new truck plan was announced. Seems there are those along Main who also want to sleep at night, and they don't consider truck motors as exactly sweet music in their ears . . . All of which leaves those who are definitely unhappy, those who are partly happy and very few who are entirely happy . . . Of course, the problem will solve itself when the new highway 65 is completed. Or will it? When traffic moves onto the new 65, there will no doubt be a concerted drive by someone to get those trucks back into the center of Porterville.

AND MEMORIAL district board members have troubles. Since the Porterville Memorial auditorium will be built on high school property and will be used regularly by high school students, the building must meet certain state requirements, which means the state architect must approve building plans, which means that the state architect must be paid before plans will be checked. So, the memorial district drew a warrant for something over $1,600 to cover the state architect's fee, but the county auditor's office refuses to OK it until an opinion is rendered by the county counsel as to whether or not the inspection is necessary.

on a memorial district building. A technicality, no less, and probably justifiable, but, the warrant was submitted last November 18 and it's still bouncing like a hot check between the office of the county auditor and the county counsel . . . Could it be that the county boys are still a little concerned about that interest money the memorial district got back from the county and are going to make it just a little tough for memorial district directors when they get a chance?

PLEASE REFER to second paragraph. Anyone want to run for office?

Flavor chicken with herbs and accent the delectable flavors with lemon juice. And if you are especially fortunate, you have a spit or rotisserie for roasting your chickens or squabs in a glowing heat, until they are cooked to a juicy turn.

Architects and homeowners now often include wall-installed, open-fire rotisseries in kitchen plans; or there are many different portable electric rotisseries available. Even if you live in an apartment you can enjoy the fun and gastronomic pleasure of cooking on a rotisserie.

Try this Lemon Herb Sauce for basting the next chicken, squab, capon, or small turkey that you barbecue. It's wonderful for all barbecuing, not just for that done on a rotisserie.

Lemon Herb Sauce

1 small clove garlic	2 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 teaspoon salt	1/2 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper
1 can (5-1/2 oz.) lemon juice	1/4 cup salad oil
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme

METHOD: Mash garlic with salt in a bowl; add lemon juice and other ingredients and blend well. As chicken is cooked on rotating spit, occasionally baste with sauce.

Lemon Herb Chicken

First wash and clean fowl. Salt cavity; then brush outside of fowl with oil before putting it on rotisserie. Baste with the Lemon Herb Sauce.
